London, November 26.
The Dublin Gazette contains a Proclamation which absolutely prohibits and suppresses Sinn Fein and kindred Nationalist organisations throughout Ireland.
Such bodies had previously been proclaimed as dangerous.

BRITISH TRADE IN CHINA.

SOME SUGGESTED IMPROVED METHODS.

London, November 26.
In a paper on British trade in China, read before the Royal Society of Arts, Dr. H. B. Morse, late Statistical Secretary to the Inspectorate General of Chinese Customs, declared that it would be difficult to dislodge Japan from the very strong position she had acquired in the Chinese market. It would be long before British mills could furnish the supplies demanded and the necessary tonnage be available. Much strenuous effort was required to reconquer the lost and re-establish the imperilled markets. Co-operation, Amalgamation and Alliance must be the British traders' watchwords of the future.
Dr. Morse contrasted the leisureliness of the British system of Consular Reports with the speediness of the American system. The Chinese Consular Service required special training, owing to the difficulties of language and the complicated duties arising from the extra-territoriality of Europeans. He suggested an arrangement whereby each year there would be one British Commercial Attaché in the Treaty Ports, another in the interior of China, and a third travelling Europe and America, studying the production and sale of goods for China, and whereby the functions of these three would be interchanged yearly. He pointed out that the British system of weights and measures and currency was an obstacle to British trade. He urged that Chinese students should be induced to come to England. As regards advertising Trade Missions were good, but travellers with plenty of free samples were better. The middlemen in China, namely the old-established firms knowing China's requirements, were indispensable, but should be supplemented and stirred up to be modern.

THE VLADIVOSTOK REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT.

AN EX-CZECH LEADER IMPLICATED.

London, November 26.
Reuter's correspondent at Peking, telegraphing on November 18, says that the Allied Representatives to-day quelled an extensive revolutionary movement at Vladivostok, in which General Gaidar, an ex-Czech leader, is implicated, aiming at an agreement with Bolsheviks for the formation of a Siberian Constituent Assembly. A smaller similar movement was suppressed at Irkutsk.

THE DRINK QUESTION.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S PROMISE.

London, November 26.
Replying to a Temperance Deputation from the Churches, the Premier announced that a Bill would shortly be introduced continuing the powers of the Liquor Control Board, and establishing Commissions with real powers of control, which would keep local bodies up to the mark and watch experiments in other countries; for example, prohibition in America and the effects of different methods in dealing with the drink question at home.

CABLE DELAYS AND ERRORS.

QUESTIONS IN THE HOUSE.

London, November 26.
In the House of Commons, Sir John Cowan affirmed that cables from Australia were now rarely transmitted without mutilation, necessitating a repetition.
Mr. Illingworth, replying, pointed out that the pressure on the cables which existed in wartime had not yet ceased and consequently the risk of error in transmission exceeded the normal. But there was no reason to think that the percentage of errors had greatly increased. The Cable Authorities concerned had assured him that every effort was being made to improve the service as regards both accuracy and rapidity.

COURTS MARTIAL.

SOME ABOLITIONS RECOMMENDED.

London, November 26.
The Committee to enquire into the procedure at Military Courts Martial recommends the abolition of Regimental Courts Martial. A minority report further recommends the abolition of District Courts Martial.

A BY-ELECTION.

EASY WIN FOR LABOURITE.

London, November 26.
The by-election at Chester-le-Street resulted as follows:—Mr. Lawson, Labour, 17,838 votes, and Mr. Gilmour, National Democrat, 5,313.

MEXICAN GENERAL EXECUTED.

London, November 26.
A message from El Paso says General Felipe Angeles, who was General Villa's Chief Lieutenant, was sentenced to death by a Carranza Government Court Martial in the evening and executed the following dawn.

PAN-GERMAN DEMONSTRATIONS.

THE PRUSSIAN SPIRIT EXTOLLED.

Berlin, November 25.
Renewed Pan-German demonstrations have taken place at Potsdam. Crowds assembled outside Ludendorff's residence and cheered Ludendorff, the ex-Kaiser and Militarism. Ludendorff, in a speech, extolled the Prussian spirit.

INTERNATIONAL LABOUR.

OFFICIAL REPRESENTATIVES FROM TWELVE COUNTRIES.

Washington, November 26.
The International Labour Conference has agreed to membership on the Governing Body of the International Labour Office—a permanent body sitting at the seat of the League of Nations—to discuss International Labour problems. Twelve Governments will be officially represented; namely, Belgium, France, Britain, Italy, Japan, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, the Argentine, Canada, Poland and Denmark, the last-named pending the appointment of a representative of the United States.
India contended that no decision could legally be made because the Council of the League of Nations had not yet pronounced on the protest against the organisation list.
Mr. Crawford Gemmill, South Africa, protested against the method of the selection of the Governing Body.

TIBET AND CHINA.

THE QUESTION OF FRONTIERS.

Delhi, November 26.
The Government of India has issued a contradiction to the numerous rumours that the Tibetan Government intends to invoke the aid of the Nepal and Bhutan Durbars in the event of Tibet becoming hostile to China.
The Government states that complete quiet prevails on the Sino-Tibetan frontier. Since the Armistice there has been a temporary suspension of the settlement of the Sino-Tibetan question. The rumours probably started in Peking.

THE U. S. COAL STRIKE.

RECALTRANT MINERS SENT TO GAOL.

New York, November 26.

PRISON COMMISSIONERS.

VISIT TO HONGKONG.

INTERVIEW WITH THE SECRETARY.

In Hongkong at present are the members of a Prison Commission appointed by the Government of India. Before the Great War it was suggested in the Imperial Legislative Council at Delhi that it was time that the Government of India took stock of its prison administration, as there had been no wide investigation for thirty years. It was thought that the moment had arrived to examine new methods in England and America and to see how they could be adapted to Indian conditions. The war broke out, and the matter had to be dropped. When Peace was signed, the question was again taken up and it was decided to appoint a Committee to go to America and England. The Commission was the result of no agitation. The Commission is a representative one, with the official element predominant. Sir Alexander Cardew, K.C.S.I., who is the Chairman, is a Member of the Executive Council of the Madras Presidency and was Inspector-General of Prisons in Madras previously. The other members of the Commission are:—Sir James du Boulay, K.C.I.E., who is Secretary to the Government of India in the Home Department; Lt. Col. Sir Walter Buchanan, K.C.I.E., a monthly journal of medicine printed in Calcutta by Messrs. Thacker Spink and Co., and who was Inspector-General of Prisons in Bengal; Lt. Colonel J. Jackson, C.I.E., I.M.S., who was formerly Inspector-General of Prisons in Bombay; Mr. Mitchell Innes, who was Inspector of Prisons in England and retired only in May last; Khan Bahadur Khalifa Syed Hamid Hussain, formerly Finance Minister to the Patiala State; the Doral Raja of Pudukota, a native State in the Madras Presidency. All the important Presidencies of India are therefore represented on the Commission. The Secretary to the Commission is Mr. D. Johnstone, I. C. S., who was Under-Secretary to the Punjab Government. Mr. Stedman is Assistant Secretary and joined the Commission in England. He is in the India Office. The Raja is a barrister of the Madras High Court, and it was felt that the Commission wanted a man who knew law.

Interviewed this morning by a Telegraph representative, Mr. D. Johnstone, the Secretary, said:—
"We were in England for three months, where we examined witnesses, including Commissioner Booth-Tucker, of the Salvation Army, because he had been in India for 40 years. He always took great interest in the criminal classes and prisons in India. The general point of being in England was to inspect the prisons and to see how they were managed. We examined Commissioner Booth-Tucker for four or five hours. He is an old gentleman and his examination was not consecutive. We inspected Children's Courts, the idea of which is, as far as possible, to keep children out of gaol and not to bring them in contact with gaol criminals. Then we saw industrial reformatory schools, which are the next step for children up to the age of 16. Then we saw the Borstal gaol near Chatham. It receives offenders from the age of 16 to 21. Later we saw local prisons such as Wormwood Scrubs. These local prisons receive prisoners with sentences up to three years. Then we saw also in the Isle of Wight the prisons of Parkhurst and Camp Hill. Camp Hill is the place the men are sent to receive sentences of penal servitude combined with preventive detention. They get penal servitude for five years and preventive detention for five years. The idea of penal detention is to give them privileges. We saw the Scottish prisons, the Calton gaol and the new prisons in Edinburgh. We inspected the Borstal institution at Barmley in Glasgow. We did not examine any witnesses. The members of the Commission took notes of what struck them. After that we crossed the Atlantic and we remained in America for five or six weeks. The gaols in America were instructive. We saw some fine prison buildings—a lot that were good and a certain amount that were very bad. In the latter category must be placed one prison in New York. The point is that the Americans admit that the bad things are bad. They don't try to defend them. On the other hand, the good ones are very good."

TO-DAY'S EXCHANGE.

The closing rate of the dollar, on demand, to-day was 5s. 7/4d.

THE WEATHER.

Forecast:—Fair Barometer:—30.13 Temperature 2 p.m.:—61. Humidity 2 p.m.:—78.

"How would you contrast the American and British prisons?" enquired our representative.
"The general impression, I think, was that in America, as compared with England, there is greater leniency of treatment. The prisoners are allowed to smoke in many of the prisons in America, and once a week they play sport. The general attitude in America, as regards criminals, seems to be that they are more sinned against than sinning, because they may, perhaps, have been brought up in bad conditions or amongst bad associates."
"Is that the general impression that the members of the Commission formed in their minds?"
"I should think it was fairly obvious. That is what most said."
"I suppose that the Commission is leaning towards that view," remarked our representative.
"I don't think so. The idea in America goes a bit too far, and a good many of the people who know most about prisons in America think so too."
Continuing, Mr. Johnston said:—
"We travelled widely through America. Apart from some inspections in San Francisco, we had to cover the East and Middle States. After that we went to Japan. We inspected a couple of prisons in Tokyo. That was not very instructive. Then we inspected the Bilibid prison in Manila, which is administered on the American style. It did not impress me personally. We are going to travel about India all this winter. Our work has hardly begun. We are going to tour the whole of India and the Andamans and then we have to write the report, which is to be done after the tour is finished. We expect to finish the tour about the middle of April. In England and America we saw, according to Mr. Innes, criminals practically 'from the bud to the blossom.' We are to inspect the Hongkong gaol and will leave for India on the 15th. We do not cover Singapore."

TREASURE HUNT.

LOST GALLEON AND ITS RICHES.

A correspondent writes to the Observer—
The search for the treasure ship of the Armada in Tobermory Bay, off the Island of Mull, which was suspended during the war, was resumed recently, and the latest reports indicate that the salvagers are hopeful of a successful termination of their labours at no distant date. Whether these expectations are realised or not, the story of the quest, which is surrounded by a halo of romance, is one of persistent endeavour in face of great difficulties, and even if disappointment should continue for some years longer to be the harvest of the operations, the spirit that has prevailed among the searchers is not likely to be daunted on that account. Colonel Mackenzie Foss, who is directing the work on behalf of a syndicate, believes that at last the sunken galleon has been correctly located, but it lies hidden in the silt of ages, and a good deal of excavation may yet be necessary before anyone can be absolutely assured that the salvagers are not once more, as they have been on several previous occasions, on the wrong track.

If the hull of the ship should ultimately be recovered, and unless the whole crusade has been undertaken on false information, which is extremely improbable, a rich reward is in store for the finders. The galleon de Florencia was the treasure ship of the "invincible Armada." In its strong room were gold and silver plate, and jewels, while it was also supposed to contain the crown intended for the coronation of the Spaniard who was to reign over England when the heretic Queen Elizabeth had been subjugated. In the covenants drawn up not long after the wreck of the Florencia in November, 1588 it was expressly stipulated that if the crown was recovered it should become the property of the King of England, the rest of the treasure to be the property of the Marquis of Argyll. The vessel sank as the result of an explosion, one of the Macleans of Morven, who had been disarmed by the Spaniards after going on board to receive payment of a debt, laying a train to the powder magazine. Among the officers were several Grandees. The Florencia carried fifty-two guns, and had on board, in addition to a crew of about eighty, 400 soldiers. The explosion, however, did not blow the vessel to pieces, but the fact that it scattered wreckage over a considerable area accounted for numerous failures to locate the hull, as the recovery of relics from time to time created among the salvagers the impression that they had only to dig deeper to discover the real treasure chest.

THE EARLY EXPLORERS.

The earliest attempts to save the vessel were made in 1661 by an expert from Sweden, who found that the deck and a considerable portion of the sides of the galleon were blown off from the mizzen-mast forward, and that the hull was filled with mud and sand. The poop, however, was standing up undamaged beyond the heavy African oak beams and planking. The bow was in eight fathoms of water, while the stern lay eleven fathoms below the surface at spring tides. These early investigations, which were frustrated by the Clan Maclean, showed that cannon and other materials were scattered about the vessel with a radius of sixty feet. Owing to no permanent marks having been left by the 17th century salvagers and to the shore having altered by the passage of time, the syndicate who began the modern operations in 1903 had little practical guidance from the Swedish predecessors. The most interesting result of the early search was the recovery of two cannon, one in bronze of two calibres, and now among the relics at Inverary Castle. This beautiful piece of ordnance was the work of Benvenuto Cellini, whose monogram it bears, along with the arms of Francis I. and the fleur-de-lis.

350,000 SQUARE FEET

EXPLORED.

After the lapse of fully 300 years, operations were begun in 1903 by a syndicate under the control of Captain Burns, who employed two expert divers and a diving lighter with powerful machinery. High hopes were raised by their first season's labours, the relics brought up including a large bronze gun with breech block filled with its charge of powder, a stone cannon ball ready for the application of the match, several blunderbuses, swords and scabbards, a gold ring, and forty-five doubloons, some bearing the names of Ferdinand and Isabella and others that of Don Carlos of Spain. This encouraging start induced the syndicate to enter into a five years' engagement with the Duke of Argyll for the recovery of the galleon and its contents. While many relics were picked up during that period, the salvagers were unable to locate the ship, despite a great deal of hard work in boring and digging a sand-bank, which they subsequently realised had been almost futile. It seemed to be beyond doubt then that they had been searching the wrong place. Long steel rods were used to probe the bed of the bay and when a hard obstruction was encountered, a Priestman digger was set to excavate, and in that an area extending to 350,000 square feet was re-marked. The search was by no means void of interest, and a large number of articles, mostly of war-like character, was recovered during the five years.

LATEST DISCOVERIES.

In October, 1909, a new syndicate took up the hunt under the direction of Colonel Mackenzie Foss, who satisfied himself that the ship lay much nearer the entrance to Tobermory Bay than had been supposed. The most approved appliances were procured and the advice of experts was sought, and in short, nothing was left undone to expedite the work; but Colonel Foss did not under rate the difficulties in attempting to locate a hulk that was believed to be buried under thirty feet of silt and boulder clay, which in turn were more than seventy feet under water. In the autumn of 1909, the salvagers recovered a number of powder flasks, broken muzzles of small calibre, necks of jugs of Spanish pattern, and (most important of all) a tong-like appliance which had been employed by Swedish engineers in 1666. This seemed to show that the divers were at the spot where the galleon sank.

In the following summer it was recorded that operations had reached the stage of certainty as to location. Now dredging methods were introduced, a centrifugal pump with suction capacity of 250 tons being brought into play. The recovery of numerous pieces of black African oak and lime-encrusted iron stimulated the belief that the searchers had at last struck the scene of the treasure ship. Then came a new source of trouble, the divers encountered a thick layer of clams, oysters, and cockle shells pressed almost to the consistency of concrete, and soon afterwards the divers found below these layers of shells huge boulders ranging up to half a ton in weight. With a more powerful suction pump the salvagers in 1911 made a large addition to the list of relics, and brought up large quantities of timber, which were judged to have been blown off the stem of the galleon. The boulders, which had probably formed the ship's ballast, proved a stiff barrier to the progress of the work, but in 1912 confidence in the success of the search was unshaken. Along with a variety of relics were found three perfect teeth firmly fixed in a jaw bone, and almost the complete bones of a boy about fourteen years of age. Coins, pieces of pottery, and firearms were constantly being unearthed.

A SKULL FOR SPAIN.

When the search was resumed a few months ago, after the interruption due to the war, Colonel Foss and his staff were hopeful of having definite results ere long, as, in their opinion, the position of the wreck is no longer in doubt. It lies about ninety yards from Tobermory Pier, embedded in sand to an unknown depth. From the salvage raft, almost daily, a grab or iron cage is lowered by means of a pulley to the sea floor. When its contents of sand and silt are hoisted they are deposited on a sieve, flushed with a powerful hose, and then carefully scrutinised. "Pieces of light" and oak timbers are being brought up almost daily. An important recent find was a blackened skull, which like other human remains recovered from time to time, was reverently laid aside to be forwarded to the Spanish Government for interment. Large quantities of stones have also been saved lately. These are accounted for by an instruction given in the general orders issued to the Armada by the Duke of Medina Sidonia to the effect that every ship should carry on board casting stones, to be used during a fight. In the same way the discovery of sheet lead in the past few weeks is associated with another order given in the Spanish State papers found in the Castle of Simancas—"The artificial fire must be entrusted to the care of the most skilled men, who understand how to manage it, otherwise the result may be great damage to ourselves."

The material results of the exploration may ultimately prove to be of great value; but these are not the sole factors that are now inspiring the salvagers, whose aim is to raise the sunken galleon as a relic of supreme historical interest. It would be a matter of national pride if through the untiring efforts of Colonel Foss the country should find a unique memorial of that "invincible Armada," which, in the words of Bacon, "after they had been well beaten and chased, made a perambulation about the Northern Seas, ennobling many coasts with wrecks of mighty ships, and so returned home with greater devotion, than they set forth with expectation."

ADULT EDUCATION.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. MANSBRIDGE.

There has recently been established in three rooms in the Adelphi the centre of the first international organisation for education. It is called the World Association for Adult Education.
Its purpose, Mr. A. E. Zimmer has told us, is to dispel the melancholy belief that grown men and women have nothing to learn and to diffuse throughout all countries and in every section of society the sense of wonder and curiosity and the gift of mutual sympathy and companionship which add so much to the meaning of life.

Its chairman is Mr. Albert Mansbridge, the founder of the Workers Educational Association, whose business in life has been well said to be to set new ideas going. His great idea now is that men living in different countries, who are eager and active in the performance of any specific necessary work, should have a definite opportunity of making friends with one another and sharing the results of their experience and investigations.

And this, quite simply, is the aim,
he says, of the World Association
so far as adult education is concerned. In January he is going to America to give a course of Lewell lectures at Boston on Democratic Movements and Institutions in England. This visit will enable him to develop the very important American side of the work.

The plans of the World Association are to bring into co-operation
the various adult educational movements of the world. There is very little information in England, Mr. Mansbridge said, in an Observer interview, "at the disposal of the ordinary interested person concerning educational efforts in other countries, and it is clear that both the English themselves and the people of other lands will benefit through the movement from the experience of one another and the encouragement which it can give them."

Countries like Czechoslovakia and Serbia are looking to us for assistance, and in order to make this assistance effective we have established a bureau of information, the intention of which is to gather accurate details concerning educational efforts everywhere, and to publish the information through the periodical bulletin and in other ways, besides, of course, being ready to answer questions from any parts of the world concerning any aspect of adult education.

"The Association itself will work both extensively and intensively. It regards different countries as it does different aspects of adult education. We shall inquire into adult education from various standpoints—it may be from the standpoint of the subject, or it may be from the standpoint of need, for example, the study of craftsmanship and its application to adult education,

and so on—and the educational difficulties experienced by different classes of people. We have arranged a commission to inquire into such difficulties amongst merchant seamen and the possibilities of education
amongst them.

"One of the chief things we are called upon to do is to put people from other countries into direct touch with the adult education movement here. We get a stream of people: some students, some inquirers. The great idea is the establishment of central premises which will include a hostel and perhaps a club, where people can be welcomed and meet one another. Towards this end we are taking almost immediate steps.

"The Association is receiving the support of the Ministries of Education in various parts of the world, and already it has representatives in twenty-two countries. The leaders of thought in Great Britain are associated with us, and also the leaders of the Army Education Scheme. As the men who have profited by this scheme in the Army leave the service we hope to bring them into touch with the educational institutions they need. Amongst our subscribers is the Queen. The Cassell trustees have given £500
a year for each of five years."

As to the spirit which is underlying the whole movement, Mr.
Mansbridge said: "The promoters of the Association believe in education simply as a means of personal development. In a word, they do not advocate education for any specific purpose.
They believe the more the individual is developed the

ACTRESS AND THIEF.

CONFESSES TO OVER 70
CASES OF LARCENY.

Said by the police to be "a lady of high birth," Mary Theresa Greenway has been an actress, thief and associate of a well-known criminal.

This outline of an amazing
career was given at the London
Sessions recently by Detective-Sergt. Harman, who said the woman had confessed to over seventy cases of theft. The charge against her on this occasion was of stealing a cigarette case, brooches and other articles from different persons.

The detective said that her method was generally to answer advertisements for situations, and when she was shown into the dining or sitting room, to steal anything on which she could lay her hands. She immediately sold the articles at jewellers' or second-hand dealers' shops.

At the age of 18 she was sent to Australia, where she became an actress. Her marriage there with an actor proved most unhappy, and, returning to England,
she carried on business in a small way, doing embroidery work.

She came under the influence of a lady, and was sent to Paris,
where she obtained a position as a governess.

Six years ago she came back to England, took to drink, and since had been gradually going down and down. She was liberated from prison last year, and, apparently owing to bad company,
committed these crimes.

Sergt. Harman added that,
when in prison, the woman
made the acquaintance of a well-known criminal, who made arrangements for her to get an advance of £10, with a view of her starting further on her downward career.

Sentence of nine months' imprisonment in the second division was passed.

DEFENCE OF THE EMPIRE ON THE PACIFIC.

DETAILS OF THE £20,000,000 A YEAR FAR EASTERN
FLEET.

Melbourne, Oct. 21.

Lord Jellicoe's report on naval matters premises that Australia is powerless against a strong naval or military power without the assistance of the British Fleet.

But whether political considerations admit of a strong British Fleet permanently based in Far Eastern waters or not, an Australian contribution to that Fleet is necessary in order to provide force and naval organization to delay an enemy's action.

"The Empire's interests during the next five years," adds Lord Jellicoe, "are likely to demand a Far Eastern sea-going fleet of considerable strength."

It is assumed this fleet will comprise—

- 8 battleships (modern Dread-nought type).
- 8 modern battle cruisers.
- 10 light cruisers.
- 40 modern destroyers.
- 3 flotilla leaders.
- 2 destroyer depot ships.
- 36 submarines (excluding those in Indian waters).
- 4 submarine parent ships.
- 12 Fleet minesweepers.
- 1 large sea-going minelayer.
- 2 Fleet repair ships.

This fleet, comprising ships of the Royal Navy, the East Indies Squadron, the Australian Navy, and other vessels in Far Eastern waters furnished by Canada,
New Zealand and the Malay States, should be organised to act under one single direction during war, and for the general safety of British Far Eastern possessions
and sea communications.

This fleet is additional to all ships required for the defence of harbours and direct protection of trade by convoy.

The Government has taken preliminary steps on the lines of Lord Jellicoe's recommendations.—Exchange.

[It has already been stated that the eventual annual cost of the Far Eastern Fleet would be nearly £20,000,000; Great Britain to pay towards the cost of the new Armada 75 per cent., Australia 20 per cent., New Zealand 5 per cent.]

MITSUBISHI WORKERS ON STRIKE.

Over 1,000 workers at the Tagami factory of the Mitsubishi Dockyard in Nagasaki
are reported to be going on strike.
Instead of resuming work on the 10th instant after the noon recess, these workpeople assembled on some unoccupied ground near No.
3 Dock, and discussed demands to be preferred to the management of the dockyard. It appears that 30 per cent. increase of wages is the chief item of their new demands.

The Hongkong Telegraph

HONGKONG, MONDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1919.

A VALUABLE BOMBSHELL.

Whatever his political opponents may say to the contrary, it is undoubtedly a fact that Mr. Winston Churchill has more than once given utterance to an illuminating thought that has arrested people in their everyday life and caused them soberly to reflect on the trend of public events. With Mr. Winston Churchill as a party politician this article is not concerned, but, as a preliminary to what follows, the writer will pause to pay tribute to the clarity of vision, the ability to realise essentials, and the fearless speech, of a politician who has yet to reach his highest mark. Others may differ, but all must agree that he constitutes a mental force of decided power. At a time when, on the surface of things, there appears to be a world-wide effort to attain a state of international and social good-will, he steps forth and makes a statement that is sufficiently startling in its purport to cause even the most indifferent to think. He throws into what would appear to be our placid deceptions the bombshell of truth, and, though it may be uncomfortable, it should bring forth our thanks for no other reason than that it has made men think. When he tells us that never before was there more complete callousness and indifference for human life and suffering manifested throughout the world than now, he strikes hard at men's belief that they had emerged from out the war morally better and humanely quickened. It is for men to reflect and see how far this description is justified; to determine whether present actions have been endowed with their true significance. Guides to future conduct can only be truly found in intelligent interpretation of current life and on the living present is always laid this burden.

For more than a year peoples have been talking of the war as a past thing, and have not infrequently taken it for granted that with the cessation of hostilities there automatically passed away those baser traits of human nature that made the war possible and necessary. Racial prejudices, greed, pride, indifference to the lesser favoured, the gospel of might, and the continual vindication of self were recognised as human inheritances that would have to give place to better things if it were ever going to be said that the Great War was a victory for civilisation as well as a victory for allied military science. Public moralists were given history's grandest opportunity, and the record of the war period's literary output, shows how well they took it. Exhortations for a moral purging were as voluminous as communications. With the writing and the reading of these together with the many speeches delivered for a like purpose, it is but natural that there has grown up the general idea that humanity is better in spirit and of higher mental tone than in the days before the war. But is this really so? Mr. Winston Churchill, so says Reuter, has declared it as his belief that we have actually been transformed into a lower sphere, and in support he cites the fact that Europe is a seething scene of misery and malevolence. The state of the world, he says, in no way betokens the endurance of peace; it is only because there is physical exhaustion that there is the present calm. He completely scuttles the idea that the war has transported peoples into a higher form. It is a serious challenge. In support of the contention one might very easily find a great deal. The internal unrest burdening practically every country in the world; the difficulty being experienced in getting agreement to the Peace Treaty; and the shameless exploitation practised by those handling the world's store of life's necessities, might be cited, and there are many more. Look where one will, there can generally be found indifference in one form or another, if not actual callousness. Even here in Hongkong, one does not need to look far for evidences. If one wished to be morbid, a very doleful picture might be sketched.

But after having duly recognised these things one can legitimately still be free from pessimism. Knowing facts should never entail a sinking under their weight. It has truly been written that hope springs eternal, or, in other words, that optimism is inevitably wedded to life. The very energy that gives us being generates our own uplift, and human life and progress are inseparable. Times are when it seems that the order is reversed and when despair is well-nigh in complete possession. Throughout over four years of war we were forced to neglect a great deal of what was good in order to vindicate what was the most vital principle of all, and now that we have gone back to less strenuous days, it is not possible to take up all at once the whole of what was laid down. It is to time alone that one can look for the corrective. To take a contemporary survey and judge of things is not to gain a true idea, for there are many war-engendered abnormalities still with us. Events do, in some measure, belie the real spirit of humanity, and one must not overlook this fact. Mr. Winston Churchill has done a real service, because he has awakened those who care to the truth that there is a great deal more to be done. By emphasising an unpleasant picture he may bring people to realise more clearly the urgent needs of the hour; by telling them that they are even worse than when war broke out, he may sting them into a very productive introspection. There is a lesson in the utterance which every man can learn if he will only set himself to do so, and the world so urgently needs the fruit of the lesson that none should be above the trying. The world has practically written "finish" to the war period, and is engaged in settling up and re-adjusting its affairs. Never more than now was wisdom, tolerance, charity and even generosity, needed, for without these things the peace that is can only prove to be a very unstable thing. Exhaustion, says Winston Churchill, has given us peace, but there is needed a peace that by the force of its own appeal to men's sense of justice and intelligence will never be broken.

NOTES & COMMENTS.

SIR HENRY MAY'S STATUE.

The public generally, and in particular those who subscribed to the Fund, will have read with interest the information which appeared in Saturday's Telegraph regarding the statue which is to be erected in the Colony to commemorate Sir Henry May's lengthy association with Hongkong. A sum of close on $18,000 was raised for the purpose, and if the original intention of limiting subscriptions to five dollars were adhered to, it will be conceded that the response has been surprisingly good, for it is this mean, that the number of subscribers was close on 3,500. As to the site chosen for the statue, we do not know that in selecting the Public Gardens the best possible choice has been made—that is, if it is to remain permanently there. Our Public Gardens are situated in a rather out-of-the-way locality and, beautiful as they are, are seldom visited by any other than Chinese residents. Probably not a dozen Europeans in the Colony go there once in a twelve-month unless there happens to be some special function on. So, if this site is adhered to, it will mean tucking away the statue in a rather inaccessible spot where it will be very infrequently seen by those whom it is intended to remind of Sir Henry May's life-service to the Colony. Some spot along the water-front, the grounds adjacent to the Colonial Buildings (where Sir Henry spent most of his official life) or even the plot of land just in front of the ferry pier in Kowloon (where the statue would be seen by practically every visitor to the Colony) would have been better, in our opinion, than the site selected.

A FORTUNATE CIRCUMSTANCE.

Though it is true that our late Governor was more often seen in civilian than official attire, it is to be hoped that he will be represented by the statue in uniform. A statue representing anyone in the conventional frock coat, with or without tie hat, is seldom a thing of beauty. One generally associates baggy trousers and ill-fitting coats with statues of this kind, whereas in uniform the person represented usually looks far more dignified and imposing. And if we are to have statues, let's have them as impressive in appearance as is possible. Except in unusual cases, it is not customary to erect statues to individuals while they are still alive, but in this instance there is justification for the exception in the fact that Sir Henry May will probably never visit Hongkong again. His still being alive is a point in favour of the sculptor, who will be able to see him in the flesh and arrange sittings if necessary. The result should be a more life-like statue than if he had to rely wholly on photographs. A capable man has apparently been entrusted with the task, so when the statue does arrive we ought to possess a memorial which will be as true to life as is possible and therefore a constant reminder of one who gave of his best to the Colony.

THE VICE QUESTION.

The recent discussion which has taken place in our columns on the subject of the closing down of the European houses of ill-fame will, we trust, not be without good result. It is a matter which is difficult of treatment through the columns of the Press, but that is no reason why it should not be freely spoken about. Social evils like these need to be brought well into the light. We have taken the matter up because we are convinced that the Colony would be all the better were it rid of such establishments. Even if we leave on one side the standpoint of the harm they may do to the morals of young men, there are other aspects of the question which render it advisable to put it no higher, that these places should be done away with. Opinions may differ on some of the points involved, but we have heard of no-one who would seriously deny the truth that many of our young men would be infinitely better off in every way if these centres of vice ceased to exist. We are glad to think that the evil is not likely to be left untouched much longer, and that it is receiving close attention in the proper quarter.

MURDER CHARGE.

INDIAN GUNNER ON TRIAL.

The last case in the November Criminal Sessions, that in which was made against Bahadar Singh, a gunner of the Hongkong-Singapore Battalion, R.G.A., was heard before His Honour Mr. Justice Gompertz, at the Supreme Court this morning.

The accused pleaded not guilty, and the following jury were called—Messrs. Samuel Green (foreman), R. M. Austin, P. J. Taylor, U. M. Omar, A. H. da Silva, L. A. Silva and Wong Kwong-tin.

The Attorney General (Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C.) prosecuted on behalf of the Crown, and Mr. F. C. Jenkin (instructed by Mr. J. H. Gardiner) defended the accused.

Opening the case, the Attorney General said that the charge was one of the wilful murder, alleged to have been committed by the accused at 1.30 a.m. on the 8th September, inside a barrack room at the Whitfield Camp at Kowloon, which was occupied by a number of men belonging to the Hongkong-Singapore Battalion of the R.G.A. The chief witness for the prosecution, Gunner Dawar Singh, would speak to the fact that he was sleeping on the morning in question in the Barrack Room and the deceased, Sucha Singh, was sleeping in the camp bed next to his. At about 1.30 a.m. Dawar Singh was awakened by the sound of blows, as if some one were being struck. He then saw the accused standing at the far side from him of the deceased's bed, between it and the wall. He called out "Sucha Singh has been struck by Bahadar Singh," and explained that his cry was due to what he saw. What he saw was that the accused was standing by the bed of the man who was now deceased, with a piece of iron piping in his right hand, while at the same time blood was flowing from the head of the deceased.

Dawar Singh then saw the accused walk across to his own bed and throw the piece of iron piping over to the window. At the same time he also saw Gadak Singh (another witness) sit up in his bed, and the explanation for this was that the iron piping in his flight, towards the window had passed over Gadak Singh's bed. The iron bar, on its dropping out of the window, was picked up by another witness. It was formerly used as a blow-pipe in the cookhouse.

Those were the main facts with reference to the accused. That evidence of Dawar Singh was corroborated by various witnesses. When Bahadar Kisen Singh was called into the room, he was informed that the deceased had been struck by the accused. The accused, simply denied it, and later when he was brought before the Adjutant, Capt. Evenden, he was duly cautioned, after which he made a statement that he was awakened by Dawar Singh crying out that Sucha Singh had been struck. He was the first to get out of bed and went to the accused to render assistance by giving him water. He was falsely accused to Bahadar Kisen Singh, and put under arrest.

Continuing, the Attorney General said that the accused during the following few days made no attempt to incriminate anyone. The unfortunate man who was struck died on the 11th September, three or four days after he was struck, and the Military Authorities, realising the fact that it was a case to be dealt with by the Civil Authorities of the Colony, handed over the accused to the Police. On the 12th September he was brought to the charge room and then he made the following statement: "I did not kill or strike Sucha Singh, but he was killed or struck by Dawar Singh (the principal witness). Dawar Singh falsely accused me of it." Remarkable on this statement the Attorney General dwelt on the fact that the accused in his previous statement had said he heard Dawar Singh call out several times that the deceased had been struck. The accused, after the murder, did not incriminate anyone, until he was brought to the Police Station, when he thought fit to trump up a charge against Dawar Singh. Concluding, Mr. Pollock said that the evidence would clearly establish a charge of wilful murder against the accused.

Evidence was then called to bear on the Attorney General's statement.

The case is proceeding.

To-day is Queen Alexandra's 75th birthday. Men-of-war in port dressed ship for the occasion and a royal salute was fired at noon.

COST OF LOCAL COAL.

REASON FOR EXORBITANT PRICES.

"A TROUBLESOME BUSINESS."

With the advent of the winter, more coal will now be consumed in the households of the Colony. In Shanghai, household coal is retailed at $13 per ton, but in Hongkong the price is $30 per ton for the Peak and $25 for the lower levels. If they can get good ordinary coal in Shanghai at $13, there seems no good reason why we should not get it near that rate in Hongkong. The present rate works out at $7 per ton for cheap Japanese coal.

In order to ascertain the reason for such a difference between Shanghai and Hongkong prices, a representative of the Telegraph called upon the manager of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha to acquire some enlightenment. The interview was instructive, disclosing an attitude of "Take it or leave it," which seems to prevail in many of our local firms. The household coal business is very troublesome. We do not like the household coal business, and we are just now quoting Chinese dealers prohibitive prices. We are a big firm and we are not anxious to be troubled with small business. Some customers do not pay regularly. Supplying to the Peak entails sending shroffs and coolies to the Peak. Coolie hire alone costs $4 per ton of coal. The real price in our godown is $24. In supplying the houses we have to sift the coal twice, so as to select the big coals. This entails an additional expense.

"They do not do the same in Shanghai?"

"Yes, they do," was the reply. "Then why is the price here not the same?" enquired our representative. "They do it there on a big scale. If we want to do household coal business on a large scale, we must increase our staff, and make a reduction in price of only $2. The Chinese sell coal cheaper than us."

"Then why cannot your firm sell it just as cheap, or cheaper?"

"Because if we were to reduce our prices we should deprive the Chinese of their business."

"What is your cost price?"

"The cost price in Japan is 26 yen per ton. We fixed our exchange a long time ago at 160 and 175. We fix exchange two or three months ahead. We also fixed the freight long ago. Sometimes we fix it a year in advance. Everything is against us now. The cost in our godown is $21 or $22."

"If you get your coal at this exchange and this freight, what will be your cost?"

"It will be $17 or $18 per ton."

"People complain that prices are too high," asserted our representative.

"We do not want to reduce prices. If we reduce our rates, it will deprive our Chinese customers of their profits."

"At what price do you sell to these Chinese?" enquired the interviewer.

"At $19 to $20 ex-godown. They have to shift the coal, incur extra coolie hire, and sell dust coal cheaper than they purchase the whole stuff. For lump coal they may get a better price, but, on the whole, they do not make too much profit. It is very difficult for them to get their money back as the houses on the Peak are scattered and the residents are not very quick in their payments. If the shroff is sent twice or thrice that will cut down their profits. We have a amount of trouble with users of household coal on the Peak. Every day we are rung up fifty times. Grumble like Why have you not sent our coal as ordered? 'Why did you send us coal that we did not order?' are very common. There is too much trouble."

"You do not think that prices of coal will be reduced in the near future?"

"I think we shall have to make some reduction."

"What is the local consumption of coal?"

"Two to three thousand tons per month. That is the entire consumption of Hongkong, 75 per cent. of which is burnt by the Chinese, while the best grade is taken by the Europeans. Supply at present is quite plentiful. So far we have not experienced any difficulty."

CHINA SQUADRON.

SUBMARINE FLOTILLA ARRIVES.

Further additions to the China Squadron arrived in harbour yesterday afternoon, namely, nine war craft comprising the new Sixth Submarine Flotilla which left Devonport on September 15th. The Flotilla comprises the "Ambrose" (parent ship), "Marazion" (sloop), the drifter "Moonshine", and submarines L 1, S, 4, 6, 9, and 15.

The "Ambrose" is one of the numerous specially fitted-out ships for submarine work, and as such was employed in various parts of the North Sea and other spheres of naval activity during the war. She is thoroughly up to date, and carries every facility and equipment for her special duties.

The "Marazion" is a sloop of nearly 1,000 tons, and was latterly employed as tender to the "Ambrose," a duty she will continue to discharge on the China Station. She is also a product of the war, and much speedier than the ordinary sloop of pre-war times most of which were built for river and shallow sea patrol.

The "Moonshine" is a large drifter attached to the Flotilla for mining service. She was originally in the mercantile marine service, and was taken on during the last year of the war for mining duties, for which she is specially adapted. She has all the latest equipment for lifting and sweeping mines.

The submarines—six in number—are of the well-known L type, well-nigh 1,000 tons in displacement, well armed and very speedy both awash and submerged. They are products of the war and of all the dreadful under-water experience induced by German frightfulness. Some of the L boats had exciting experiences during the war.

The full list of the officers of the Flotilla is:—

FLOTILLA OFFICERS.

Commander, Cecil P. Talbot, D.S.O.; Lieut.-Commanders, R. C. Hayes, O.B.E., D. F. Jones; Lieutenants, R. B. Martin, J. E. Dicken; Engr.-Commander, H. W. GYMKHANA.

THE ST. ANDREW'S MEETING.

Although rendered very much less enjoyable than anticipated by reason of the very inclement weather the Gymkhana held at Happy Valley on Saturday afternoon in aid of the Devastated Villages of France fund, must be voted a success. When racing commenced there was quite a good crowd present, and although the weather, which had been threatening before, became most persistently wet, there was quite a large attendance to witness the majority of the events. As the figures below show the cash sweeps were well supported, and the fund must have considerably benefited.

Known as the St. Andrew's Meeting, the event was characterized by some very good racing. Cups for all events had been donated by various supporters of the Gymkhana Club, and the French community in Hongkong had very generously subscribed the whole of the stake money. Tea was provided by the Portuguese community, assisted by Messrs. Wiseman Ltd., and was extensively patronised. With such liberal assistance those who organised the event should be in a position to hand over a very gratifying sum.

His Excellency the Governor arrived in time to see the race for the St. Andrew's Cup, and was an interested spectator of the remaining events. At the conclusion of the racing he presented the Cups to the winning owners.

Mr. H. B. L. Dowbiggin, the Hon. Secretary, in asking His Excellency to present the cups, said that before doing so he would like to propose an omnibus vote of thanks to all those who had helped to make that Gymkhana a success; to the owners of ponies, the jockeys, the donors of cups, the Portuguese community for having provided the tea, and to the French community for having subscribed the stakes for the meeting. (Applause.)

His Excellency then presented the cups, afterwards saying that Mr. Dowbiggin had omitted one name in mentioning those to whom thanks and appreciation were due. That was Mr. Dowbiggin himself who had taken endless trouble in organising that successful meeting. He congratulated Mr. Dowbiggin on his success. (Hear, hear.)

It was announced by Mr. Dowbiggin that the winner of one of the Cash sweeps had promised to give a large proportion of it to the Fund. (Hear, hear.)

We understand that the winner of the sweep in question was Mrs. Basil Tylor.

During the afternoon the band of H.M.S. Hawkins (by permission of Capt. R.G.H. Henderson, C.B., and officers) rendered a very enjoyable programme of music, under Bandmaster H. Lodge, whilst the pipers of the H.K.S.B., R.G.A., (by permission of Major T. M. Wakefield and officers) were also in attendance.

The officials were—

The Stewards of the Hongkong Jockey Club, (Ex-Officio). The Hon. Mr. John, Johnstone, Mr. G. C. Moxon, Mr. D. M. Ross, Mr. J. H. Congdon, Major L. Cassel, O.B.E., Mr. C. L. Sandes, Mr. W. J. Morrison, Hon. Treasurer, Mr. H. B. L. Dowbiggin, Hon. Secretary.

Commodore V. G. Gurner, R.N., Judge.

Mr. D. M. Ross, Handicapper.
Mr. C. L. Sandes and Mr. H. W. Dick, in Charge of the Scale.
Mr. H. J. Gedge, 1st Starter.
Mr. J. H. Congdon, 2nd Starter.
Mr. F. H. Thomas and Mr. R. P. Thurstfield, Paddock.
Mr. M. S. Sasseon, Time Keeper.
Details of the racing are appended.

The ponies got away after a false start. Dalesman being left some yards behind. Rheostat got into the leading position, followed by a bunched field, but at the rock was displaced by White Fang. Coming into the straight Johnstone brought Ringwood along splendidly and, taking the first position, got on the rails to win comfortably by a length. The next three ponies caused the most excitement, they racing hard neck to neck for the second position. This was secured by Tonic by a head, Snuffbox and Whitefang deadheating for the third place. Time, 1 min. 32.5 secs.

This race was a triumph for John Peel's stable, its representatives securing the first and second positions. Alexander went to the lead at the start his stable companion, Burning Daylight, being last. Malcolm had second place to Alexander at the rock, the rest being well together. Burning Daylight commenced to pick up as the village was passed and on entering the home straight was cleverly brought through to first place, maintaining it in spite of a strong challenge from Alexander, winning by four lengths. Two lengths separated second and third. Time, 1 min. 39.15 secs.

That Geordie Mac's win came as a bit of a surprise is shown by the dividend of $40.10 the "Pari" paid out for a win. Geordie Mac was leading at the rock and maintained the position without much difficulty. The field crowded into the straight but Johnstone failed to get his mount through and dropped behind. Cornet and Yeoman put up a rare fight for second place, the former taking it by half a length. Geordie Mac won by two lengths: Time, 1 min. 21 secs.

SHIPPING NEWS.

SHANGHAI-HANKOW LINE.

We (Japan Chronicle learn) that the Nisshin (or Sino-Japanese) Steamship Company contemplates abolishing the regular service between Shanghai and Hankow, owing to the decrease of water in the Yangtze river, which is far greater than in previous years. The Masaki-maru of the company, which sailed from Kobe on the 18th ult. is said to be the last steamer for the service above stated.

AMERICAN FREIGHTS.

The Eastern Guide, the N.Y.K.'s extra trans-Pacific ship, picked up consignments amounting to about 3,000 tons, consisting chiefly of sundries, at a freight rate of $12 before sailing from Kobe recently. This is considered satisfactory in view of the temporary shortage of cargo which is lately manifested and is said to be regarded with envious attention by the other steamship companies. They are surely not so hard up as this, however. The constant nervousness lest there be too many ships on the run is a groundless one. Of course, strikes prevent Japan from importing the machinery and raw materials she requires; and so reduce her exports, but as things settle down there should be almost unlimited scope for bringing to Japan the means of manufacture and taking away the finished products. It is probably the freight brokers rather than the steamship companies whose complaints so readily appear in the Japanese papers.

RENEWED FREIGHT WAR.

One would have supposed that the recent admittance of the Taiyo Kaiun Kaisha into the Australian Steamship Conference marked the termination of the freight war on this run, which was in evidence some time ago, and about which there was a bitter complaint at the time. This appears not to be the case, however, there being still signs of active competition. The Akita-maru, an extra ship of the N.Y.K., which left Kobe last week, sailed only half full, although she did her best to get as much cargo as possible. The fact is that the Madras-maru, which left the port two days before forestalled her, getting several hundred tons. The Taiyo Kaiun Kaisha, also very eager to get sufficient cargo for outward voyages, is rather pessimistic in the matter. Of course, these companies belonging to the Conference, have an agreement regarding the freights, but this is said to be only a theoretical agreement, the suggestion being made that in the hunt for cargo there is a competition in the means of persuasion. It may be mentioned that on return voyages these steamer companies have consignments of wool, for which they have a special contract. The trouble lies in outward voyages because of the decrease in consignments, caused in no small part by the Australians being "fed up" with Japanese goods.

A MESSAGE TO SHIPBUILDERS.

Interviewed by the London representative of the Journal of Commerce, Sir Archibald Denby, the originator of the Shipping Exhibition before the war, gave the following message to the shipping world:—"We all feel extraordinarily pleased with this exhibition. In view of the great difficulties all British shipping and engineering concerns had to face in switching from war work to peace production this show is a remarkable revelation of what British industry can do. It is true it is not entirely representative of the great work in the shipping world now directed by British enterprise. But it indicates what this industry can and will do. We have all the resources, all the managerial power, and all the means to retain our supremacy in the shipping world. Just one note is lacking—harmony with our workers. I believe the exhibition will teach this lesson. It will show the world what can be done and that the only factor we now need is work and energy. To the workers we say Produce! Produce! When they realise this—and this wonderful exhibition will show them what it means—then there will be no uncertainty as to the glorious future of the British shipping industry, a future which is just as important to the workers and labourers as to the rest of us."

The main event will be a 15-round contest between Sky Harrison, Royal Naval Yard, the present Welter and Middle Weight Champion of the Colony, and Stoker-Eddie Walters, H. M. S. Hawkins, the challenger.

The second main event will be ten rounds between Seaman Peggy Evans, ex-Middle Weight Champion of the Mediterranean, and Seaman Hewitt. Both men are from the Hawkins.

There will also be an 8-round contest between Seaman Decenhardt, of H. M. S. Hawkins, and Stoker Neal, of the Kowloon Torpedo Depot.

Another fixture is a 6-round bout between two Flys—"Boy" Flush and "Boy" Coles, both of H. M. S. Hawkins.

The remaining contests will be announced later.

We learn that Seaman Parsons, of H. M. S. Ambrose, which arrived here yesterday, challenges any Welter Weight in the Colony to a contest.

FERRY SERVICE.

REVISED TIME-TABLE.

The comments which have appeared from time to time in our columns urging the necessity of extra ferries being put on at Kowloon between the hours of 8 and 9 a.m. for the convenience of business people, have borne fruit. Commencing to-day, a revised time-table has been put into operation, which means that between 8.20 and 9 a.m. two extra ferries have been fitted in by a rearrangement of the times of departure. The new service is as follows:

From Kowloon.	From Hongkong.
8.00 a.m.	8.05 a.m.
8.10 ..	8.15 ..
8.20 ..	8.20 ..
8.27 ..	8.30 ..
8.32 ..	8.37 ..
8.40 ..	8.42 ..
8.48 ..	8.50 ..
8.54 ..	9.00 ..
9.00 ..	9.05 ..
9.10 ..	9.15 ..
9.20 ..	9.25 ..

GIRLS WHO GET HUSBANDS.

Many mothers of pretty girls who have arrived at a marriageable age wonder how it is that other girls less prepossessing find husbands with greater facility than their own daughters do.

The girl who remains by her mother's side seeing her plainer but more winsome friends led to the altar is as often as not the girl who pays no attention to the hobbies and diversions that absorb the interest of others around her. She is generally languid, listless, pale-lipped and pallid. Pains in the back and limbs assail her at frequent moments; whilst faintness, lack of appetite, and irregularities of the functions frequently make her life wretched. A man does not want to add delicate health to his responsibilities.

It is a sad fact that numbers of these spiritless, easily exhausted girls are met with everywhere in the Far East. Yet all that they need is the rich, red, abundant blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have created for countless drooping girls in every part of the world.

If your daughter lacks vitality and verve, if she is developing anaemia, nervousness, debility or ailments peculiar to her sex, begin her cure to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Then watch how rapidly her appetite will increase, how she will desire to join in the pastimes of her friends, and how this pleasing transformation will add joy to your own life as well as to hers.

Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, or you can order them direct by mail, post free, at $1.50 the bottle, six for $8, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai. "Plain Talks To Women" is the name of a helpful booklet obtainable on request from the same address.

FOOTBALL.

SATURDAY'S MATCHES.

Saturday's League matches
resulted as follows:-

SENIOR LEAGUE.

Hongkong Club, 3; St. Joseph's

1. Police, 0; South China, 1.

Navy, 4; R. G. A., 2.

JUNIOR LEAGUE.

United F. C., 3; South China

"A", 1.

Indian R. C., 1; South China

"A", 1.

St. Joseph's R., 1; Club de

Recreio, 3.

The weather on Saturday was very unfavourable, rain falling
the whole of the day, but this did not prevent some very fine games.
The conditions which prevailed
on Saturday, from a player's point of view, are certainly better than the usual glaring sun and heat. The Club team simply revelled in the conditions, also the Navy, who made no slips on Saturday and were determined from the start of the game to lose nothing by chance.
The lighter teams, St. Joseph's and South China, did not find the conditions so pleasant, but they played surprisingly good football nevertheless, and South China must be congratulated on their first win, following a draw on Saturday last with the Navy. St.
Joseph's gave the Club a big shock. They fielded the best team that has represented them for many months, Omar in goal, E. Hyndman at back and Abbas half-back making welcome
reappearances, and Hyndman, forward, Ogley and Zeph playing right up to their old form. The Police did well to hold South China on their present form and with a couple of our old favourites back in the local force, the Police should be a strong side at the end of the season.

CLUB v. JOSEPH'S.

Both teams were practically at full strength, despite St. Andrew's Day festivities, the Club lacking
the services of McPhail and Stalker, Boyston and Hamilton
appearing on the right wing again. The Club started the game against the hill. St. Joseph's immediately took up the running,
and Silva and Ogley caused the defence a lot of trouble with fast, clever play. The Club tried each wing in turn but Zeph and Hyndman in the defence were great stumbling blocks, and again St. Joseph's set up a very warm attack which ended in one of the Club's defence handling and Silva drove the ball past Rodger from the ensuing penalty, with an unstoppable shot. The Club did not like this reverse and Borston and Reichelmann had very hard lines with fine efforts. Again St. Joseph's found the Club defence in a tangle, and Ogley nearly scored a second, Rodger just saving at the second attempt from a low ground. St. Joseph's fell away before the strong attack set up by the Club after this, and Reichelmann netted with one of his specialities all along the ground. The Club went straight for the goal in the second half and following some fine play on the right by Hamilton, McTavish gave them the lead. Ogley again troubled Rodger with a fine shot, and Reichelmann at the other end scored another fine goal which put the Club safe, and from now to the end the Club
were much superior.

St. Joseph's set up a splendid fight and are a small but clever side. The work of the defence, in which Omar, Hyndman and Zeph shone, was very fine,
and Silva, Hyndman and Ogley
were very hot in a troublesome forward line. The Club have every reason to be satisfied with the result, as they played a very strong game and did not get much in the way of present. Several of the players must have experienced a difficulty with the heavy going after a strenuous "on the previous night."
Hamilton was a striking success
on the right and Boyston worked like a Trojan amongst a very good forward line, whilst Reichelmann got his goal with classy touches. The halves had a great day with the opposing forwards but came out strong at the finish and the rear division
had a busier day than usual,
Rodger saving well on occasions.
Mr. Coaker was the official in charge.

NAVY v. R.G.A.

There were some very fine bits of football in this match and the Navy included several "Hawkins" men and had some forward vice Neale. The Navy started a hot attack, but Gladwin saved
and the R.A. opened the scoring from a nice effort by Green, who slipped past the backs and beat Crocker with a nice touch.
Graydon, soon after the restart,
equalised, and the same player,
despite the close attentions of Talfourd scored again twice in quick succession. Stone, after a lot of attacking by the Navy,
scored with a cross-drive and R.A.
were down well at the interval.

In the second half, R.A. played pluckily and Green again beat the defence, but failed with a penalty
just after Crocker saving in first-class style. Navy were also awarded a penalty, but Toms shot straight at Gladwin, who saved.

The better team won, but there was not a lot in it. Navy were well served by Crocker, Miles, Graydon, Stone and Toms, and the R.A. played a very fine game against a superior team. Green was in great form and Talfourd, Morris, Middleton and Gladwin
were away in the picture.
Mr. Townsend was the official in charge.

POLICE v. SOUTH CHINA.

The Police played a surprisingly good game against South China, the conditions appearing to favour them. Grimmett made a spirited dash on the South China goal but the goalie and backs were very safe. South China's forwards were very enterprising, but not steady enough in front of goal, and Clarke was safe also,
the first half being conspicuous for defensive play on both sides. In the second half Police made great efforts to score and were nearly through after a nice run down by the left wing, but the back kicked clear. Police had a great chance of winning from a penalty kick, but missed
the chance and with only a few minutes to go Ip Kwan scored a delightful goal with a low cross shot, quite beating Clarke, the ball crashing the net with great force.

The Police should have pulled the match off, but lacked opportunists in the forward line. The defence was sound and could not be blamed for the goal which was a beauty. Miller, Grimmett, Clarke and the goalkeeper were largely in the picture while for South China the right wing was very much in evidence and on their own day the team will be hard to beat.

Lieut. Snook was the official in charge.

THE MOLE "DISASTER."

SIR R. BACON'S COMMENT ON FAMOUS ATTACK.

If you suddenly learned that at our most vulnerable point, in some of the most critical moments of the late war, Great Britain was being guarded by two men and a boy, armed with two pop-guns, one of which was away for repairs, you would experience something of the thrill given by Admiral Bacon's book, "The Dover Patrol, 1915-17," published by Messrs. Hutchinson and Co. (34s. net).

For the one fact that stands out most clearly in these fascinating volumes is that for the very gate of England, from which we had to send every man and every cartridge, and every mouthful of food for the fighting line in France, the Admiralty could only spare a few odds and ends of obsolete vessels, because, for a chance that never came, we hid away at Scapa all our boasted naval strength. And yet the Dover Patrol was the one unit of the Fleet that was always in touch with the enemy.

Admiral Bacon is a sailor, and ready to carry on cheerfully and improvise good-humouredly with two men and a boy, if my lords of the Admiralty could spare him nothing more. But his facts are startling.

How splendidly he was served by his men he is eager to tell. The men were mostly plain fisher-folk; the vessels ordinary fishing craft. The little drifter with the armament of a single rifle and a few rounds of ammunition—who used to accompany us on our bombardments and be shelled with apparent enjoyment, had crews of hardy fellows who were seamen in the truest sense.

Often they stood unarmed as outposts in the Straits of Dover, with neither gun to fight nor speed to avoid the German destroyers.

The trawlers, with their brother fisherfolk, swept for mines at the rate of 250 miles a day, and during the first three years of the war swept a total distance equivalent to 12 times round the earth! These men saw their comrades blown up, and yet went on steadily and unfalteringly with their duties.

Of regular Navy boats—except for monitors, of whose navigating eccentricities Admiral Bacon tells some amusing stories—there were few.

The interesting feature is the phenomenal small force of destroyers with 4in. guns in the Patrol. For two years, four was the greatest number available, and once we were reduced to a single 4in. gun destroyer to hold the Straits, with a dozen or more German boats barely 60 miles away, each superior in armament to our single boat.

Little wonder that, with all their cheery confidence, the men of the Dover Patrol, up against the war as no other part of the Navy was, sometimes coveted, at least, one of the countless boats hoarded and cherished in other harbours far away from the work.

But Admiral Bacon made the best of things—and what a jolly good best it was we can realise now when we know how much he did for our national safety with such inadequate means—and the cheery spirit in which he writes is well illustrated by his description of the monitors that were entrusted to him. The Marshal Ney was a special pet.

Her engines not infrequently exploded when asked to start, her engine room was scarred as if by shrapnel from the fragments of burst cylinder heads, and the escapades of the engine room staff were marvellous. . . . When they did not burst they usually would not start and when once started no one liked to stop them for fear of not being able to start them again.

It was when a new captain had her in a gale in mid-Channel, and she was doing everything but steer, that the Admiral wirelessed him to cheer him up. "The Marshal Ney usually navigates the waters of the Patrol sideways."

Unable with the forces at his disposal to fight the enemy, as his sailor's heart urged him to do, Admiral Bacon was reduced to bluffing them, and he has some amusing stories to tell of this:

To give the enemy a fright and to give a wakeful night to several thousand men, I sent Commander

Evans with two small torpedo boats off Ostend to fire two bouquets of 100 rockets each to give the military command something to think about.

How plans were made for the landing of the 1st Division on the Belgian coast in 1917, with tanks and guns, forms one of Admiral Bacon's most interesting chapters. Huge pontoons, which were in reality 2,500 ton ships, were constructed, and the scheme contemplated the landing of 16,000 men in 20 minutes. A replica of the Middlekerke sea wall that would have to be tackled was set up in France, and tanks were taught to climb it.

Admiral Bacon gives a vivid account of the landing as it was to have been, but our troubles on the Passchendaele Ridge made the proposed combined attack impossible, and the scheme was never brought off.

After assuming that plans for running the huge pontoons (laden with troops, guns and tanks) end on to the shore had been safely accomplished, and that the monitors were keeping the German shore batteries amused, he continues:

One yell, and the first 400 troops burst ashore. The tanks began to move, and almost at once reached the wall. Then a tense excitement, the tracks gripped up the tanks climbed. . . . A flood of troops swarmed over the wall, and the action began. As soon as the troops were clear, carts, gunlimbers and sledges began to move off the pontoons. . . . Such is the description of what it was hoped would happen, but, alas, it never came off!

Of the plans for the famous attack on Zeebrugge and Ostend Admiral Bacon has much to say, since these were all worked out while he held the Dover command, though the actual operations were carried out by his successor. On these affairs his comment is:

It is impossible to have a better example of how want of experience wrecked a scheme. . . . Instead of this operation, the last naval operation of the war, being a model, a classical model, the Mole landing was a disaster; and Ostend, after your having patrolled close to it for nearly a year and a half, was not found on the only occasion when it was really necessary.

This gives such a new version of operations which the public had been led to regard as naval triumphs that, making all allowances for the disappointment of a man suddenly superseded after he had planned the attacks, we have probably not heard the last of the matter.
